“Hey Homie, smile”

Activate Homie with your voice

When you activate Homie in hospitality, Homie responds in doing with a smile

Say, “Hey, Homie”, then ask a question or make a request.

A Homie is original and operationally driven to connect visitors with our Giethoorn home base and develop personalized and unique (traveling) experiences.

In hospitality, we use Homie instead of Siri. At de Dames in Giethoorn we are rebels... With our hospitable family, everyone takes the helm and scrubs the deck. That is why we are looking for skilled Homies. Every Homie radiates a demonstrable personal responsibility, relying on the specific knowledge and skill of every other family member.

As a Homie, you'll be our guests' go-to person, connector, and problem solver. Although no day looks quite the same in this role, you can find yourself doing anything from welcoming visitors and helping guests check in and out all the way to showing off your boating skills on the Giethoorn canals.

You'll need to love sharing advice, looking after people, and building a home for our guests – while always striving to provide service in better and more creative ways.

At De Dames van de Jonge, we pride ourselves on creating warm connections that melt barriers. We contribute to global warming by our warm, long-lasting, positive, positive learning experiences (memories). But aiming to create a positive impact on the environment to give back more than what was taken.

Basically, being a Homie means creating better places and happy faces!
